

Salem College Mission: Helping women to find their unique potential, while preparing them to change the world.

Dearest Grace:

I hope that this greeting finds you very well. As you are aware, Ama was one of my star students at Salem College. Our Department of Modern Languages was blessed to have Ama to study with us for four years and then later to study in Spain for a semester. We are so proud of her as she continues her education as a law student at Wake Forest University, dedicating her career to transnational work. I spoke with Ama recently about a question that I have been researching, and she suggested that I contact both you and her aunt to get your perspectives since you currently reside in Ghana.

I am studying transnational collaborations and I would like to pose a question to you to learn more about the issues that concern women in Ghana. Like in the United States, I am certain that there are many issues that come to mind. If you could form a collaboration to tackle these concerns, what issues related to women's well-being would you like to see addressed immediately in Ghana. Your emailed response would be appreciated.

Thank you for assisting me to gain further insights.
Many blessings to you,
Krishauna

KRISHAUNA & AMA, 2011

Krishauna Hines-Gaither, k.hines-gaither@salem.edu, 336-917-5268